"MEDICINAL WINE" IMPORTS FOR YEAR

Washington, August 8.—During the year ending July 1, 1921, imports of wine into the United States totaled 1,200,000 gallons, according to Senator Sterling. North Dakota, who urged that restrictions be placed on wine imports, in the previous year, Sterling said, the wine imports had been only 28,000 gallons.

In addition to the amount listed above, 1,080,000 quarts of "still wines in bottles" and 612,000 quarts of champagne were imported into this country in the year ending July 1, 1921, Sterling announced.

Under the law, these imports were "supposed" to be for medicinal purposes, the senator said. But he didn't know whether all that wine had been purchased for that reason.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, August 8.—The whole question of prohibition, as it operates in the United States, has been thrown open in the senate.

An anti-beer bill was passed, with twenty senators voting against it, after a debate which indicated the first of a series of reactions toward present-day enforcement of the Volstead act. But while they did not succeed in defeating the bill, or in sending it back to committee, the opposition group did achieve the passage of an amendment which requires every enforcement officer to obtain a search warrant before he sets forth on the liquor trail, a provision which "drys" declared would "nullify" the Volstead law.

Consideration of the liquor issue involved violation of the constitution by government officials, prosecutive imports of liquor, the operations of rum-runners and the value of alcohol as a medicine.

Prohibits Medicinal Beer.

The bill, as passed, forbids the prescription of beer as medicine, and limits the prescription of whisky to a half-pint every ten days, an amendment authorizes the prohibition commissioners to stop the importation of vinous liquors whenever he believes sufficient wine has been produced in this country to meet medicinal needs.

So wide was the range of liquor debate that one senator even ventured to prescribe a formula whereby any layman can tell whether his friends have been drinking for medicinal purposes, or merely for social and beverage reasons.

Senator Bailey of Delaware, a practicing physician for twenty-five years, told his colleagues:

"If whisky is discernible on the breath, it has been drunk as a beverage. If it has been used as a medicine, you cannot smell it, for the body absorbs liquor when it is taken for legitimate medicinal reasons."

Value as Medicine.

Ball contended, along with Senator Pomeroy, of Ohio, that on frequent occasions liquor possessed high value as medicine. Both men cited numerous cases of persons in the sick room and opposed any legislation which would make it criminal for a doctor to prescribe sufficient liquor to an ailing patient.

If Congress can forbid a physician to use liquor as a medicine, it also can stop the use of liquor for sacramental purposes, Pomeroy said.

Debate was most vigorous, however, over the amendment of Senator Reed, Missouri, which would have imposed five years in prison on any government agent who violated constitutional rights in searching for liquor, or seizing property.

Senators Willis, Ohio, and Nelson, Minnesota, declared that to force an officer to obtain a search warrant would nullify the Volstead act and encourage bootleggers.

Heavy Penalty.

Reasons for Discharge Of Miss Riordan Denied Labor by School Board

NO FORMAL TRIAL EVER GIVEN HER, STATES TEACHER

Miss Julia Riordan Issues Statement Denying Remarks Attributed to Walter Sims.

LETTERS FROM BOARD MEMBERS ARE QUOTED

"I Consider I Am In No Way to Blame for Unfair Treatment Accorded You," Wrote Dykes.

Miss Julia Riordan, former principal of the Davis Street school, who was dropped from the teaching force of the Atlanta school system at the last election, yesterday gave out a statement in which she absolutely denied the charge that she had been given a formal trial by the board of education.

This statement was attributed to Counselman Walter Sims during the course of the meeting of the board Monday afternoon by an afternoon paper, she says. It was brought out by the fact that a committee from the federation of trades had appeared before that body to ask that she be re-elected.

Miss Riordan declared that the only time that she had ever been called before the board members was when she was asked by the teachers' committee to explain why she had not promoted one of her pupils. She stated that she had failed in this because he had failed in his studies and that her stand was backed up by the superintendent of schools.

Produces Letters.

She produces letters from the board members in regard to the incident, and also one from former Superintendent Dykes in which he declared the treatment accorded her "unfair."

Her full statement follows:

"The first intimation I have had that I was in a formal trial before the board of education at any time during my long connection with the schools. Superintendent Dykes has never, to my knowledge, preferred against me to the board charges of insubordination or of any other character. The following letter of Mr. Dykes received by me on June 18, 1921, I think, proves this conclusively:

Unfair Treatment.

Dear Miss Riordan: As superintendent I have made no charge whatsoever against you. I recommended you for re-election, and I consider that I am in no way to blame for the unfair treatment accorded you.

Very truly yours,
W. F. DYKES.

Superintendent Public Schools.

"I have never been called upon to appear before the board to make any explanation of my conduct or to answer any charges or complaints of any character whatsoever. On one occasion, last February, I was asked to appear before the teachers' committee of the board (Hutchinson, Sims and W. H. Terrell) and give my reasons for refusing the request of an unreasonable patron who wished to force the promotion of her son in the middle of the year, after that child had failed to make the necessary grades.

"On my refusal to grant the request of the boy's mother, she withdrew him from school, and later went to Mr. Dykes in an attempt to secure his assistance. Mr. Dykes did not ask me to promote the boy at that time or at any other time.

Appealed to Board.

"Failing to secure Mr. Dykes' assistance, the mother took up the matter with Walter Sims and Carl Hutchinson. Mr. Hutchinson, as chairman of the teachers' committee, requested the superintendent to arrange for a time when the mother's request would receive a hearing before the committee. I was asked to be present and to Jerome Jones Demands Respectful Hearing, When School Commissioners Are Inattentive.

RECORDS ARE REFUSED TO LABOR DELEGATION

W. W. Gaines Willing to Give Reasons for Firing Miss Riordan in "Private Conversation."

Flat refusal by the board of education Monday afternoon met a request of the Atlanta Federation of Trades for a statement of the reasons, if any, why Miss Julia Riordan was discharged from the school system at a recent meeting of that body.

The board's answer to the federation was identical with the reply sent to the Atlanta Public School Teachers' association, of which Miss Riordan was member, when the teachers addressed the board with a similar request.

Not only did the board ignore the questions of the federation, which was presented by the legislative committee of four members, but the inattentive attitude of some of the commissioners while Jerome Jones, spokesman of the labor delegation, was presenting the petition, caused the speaker to demand a respectful hearing.

Delegation Withdraws.

After the board had refused to divulge a reason for ousting the instructor, the "labor" delegation withdrew from the meeting with the startling statement by Mr. Jones that "the question is a very important one to the federation and it involves every union member in the state."

In speaking on the position of the federation, Mr. Jones said that the organization was not attempting to question the judgment of the board in dismissing Miss Riordan, neither was it asking for her reinstatement, but as a matter of principle recognized by the American Federation of Labor and its affiliates, she was entitled to know the reason why she was discharged.

"If this kind of precedent is to be established by the city of Atlanta," said Mr. Jones, "it will result in private corporations pursuing it very much to our injury, and it will work a hardship on a mass of our people to whom, I am sure, you men would not do harm consciously."

Hutchinson Interrupts.

Commissioner Carl Hutchinson, the member who led the attack on Miss Riordan, interrupted Mr. Jones to ask him why the board should be called on to explain its action in Miss Riordan's case any more than in the instances of half a dozen more teachers who were not re-elected.

JACK LEWIS DIES FROM PISTOL SHOT

Popular Atlantan, Who Belonged to Many Organizations, Had Been Ill for Months.

Jack H. Lewis, prominent Atlantan residing at 5 Peachtree place, died about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon from a self-inflicted pistol wound, his death following an illness of several months which had resulted in a complete physical breakdown.

Mr. Lewis was one of Atlanta's most popular and best known citizens, the southeastern manager of the Dixon Crucible company. He was a member of the Palestine lodge of Masons, of the Knights Templar, Yeabrah Temple of Shriners, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta Automobile association, Capital City club and the Rotary club.

Confined to his bed for several weeks, Mr. Lewis had become extremely nervous, following a slight tremor, which kept him in the hospital from about the middle of May to the middle of June. Monday he seemed in good spirits, according to Mrs. Lewis, and at about 4 o'clock he suggested to his wife that she take a little walk. When she returned about 5, he was not in his room. Finding the bath room door locked, Mrs. Lewis procured the services of two negro janitors and a neighbor, who forced the door. Mr. Lewis was found dead, apparently having

"Carelessness" Given Burial As No-Accident Week Opens

Tribute Is Paid To Boll Weevil By Legislator

Valentino Wants to Cross Insect With the Lightning Bug.

BY PAUL WARWICK.

Somewhere in the tropic blood of Valentino of Chatham, there runs a flow of sentiment; in his arteries are the corpuscles of gratitude; thoughtfulness is a part of the man—for it remained for him to pay high honor to the boll weevil, most maligned and most completely belittled of insects.

The tribute to B. Weevil came in this wise, and it came in the dignified presence of the house of representatives of this commonwealth of Georgia Monday afternoon.

Mr. Valentino introduced a resolution, which was read to the house in the stentorian, yet mellifluous tones of Fred Bridges, the reading clerk. For the first time in history, ancient or profane, outlined by H. G. Wells, or underlined by Bulwer, the boll weevil was referred to as a "blessing to humanity."

The resolution was simply this: That since the B. w., had been a blessing to humanity in that it had taught the farmers of Georgia to be poor and humble, it was meted and just that he be recognized by nothing less official than the general assembly, and that consequently...

An appropriation of $100,000 should be set aside for the state college of agriculture that the biologists there might satisfactorily cross the boll weevil with the lightning bug—thereby making it possible for the boll weevil to work at night.

Now, what do you think of that? Were it not for the fact that this is the closed season on anything approaching a pun, it might be said to be a glowing tribute. That's neither here nor there. If Burbank ever fooled with anything livelier than a snapdragon, here would be his chance.

Or, if Edison can find an insulation that will work well on a "wicked" weevil, he gets the chance to redeem himself for the phonograph escapade and save the state's supply of lightning bugs for amusement purposes after the 5 per cent tax demolishes the rest of them.

TRIBUTE ON SPORTING GOODS CUT ONE-HALF

Committee Studies Further Plans to Reduce Federal Expenses and Slash Duties Half Billion.

Washington, August 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Agreement to eliminate the taxes on fountain drinks and ice cream and the so-called luxury tax on wearing apparel is understood to have been reached today by republican members of the house ways and means committee, sitting in executive session.

The total loss of revenue from these proposed changes would be slightly less than $50,000,000 and the reductions are the first to be passed upon by the majority members in their effort to carry out the announced program of republican house leaders to cut half a billion dollars from the nation's tax bill.

Women's and misses' silk stockings or hose exceed $2 per pair.

Men's, women's, misses' and boys' coats, shoes, pumps and slippers exceed $10 per pair.

GENERAL TAX BILL PASSED BY SENATE BY VOTE 38 TO 7

Act Is Amended So as To Include Five Per Cent State Tax on All Amusements.

TAXES ARE INCREASED OVER HOUSE MEASURE

Tax on Tobacco Provided by Bill Passed by Senate. Change Is Made in Soda Fountain Tax.

The general tax bill was passed by the senate late Monday afternoon by a vote of 38 to 7 after it had been amended so as to provide for a 5 per cent state tax on all amusements, including grand opera and moving pictures.

The amendment had been recommended by the senate tax committee and was in the form of a substitute for the section in the house bill placing a $2.50 tax on grand opera. It was adopted by a 30-to-13 vote.

In the adoption of the tax bill, the senate followed closely the plan on amusements proposed by the committee, which in nearly all instances increased taxes over the scale adopted by the house. When it passed the measure, Senator John H. Jones, in a speech against the bill, declared that it would increase taxes approximately 30 per cent over the original house measure.

In the roll call on the bill, Senators Chapman, Johnson, Lester, Mansson, Peacock, Wall and Williams voted against it in its entirety.

Amusement Tax Passed.

Vote was taken on the amusement tax only after two hours' debate in which two amendments offered from the floor of the senate were turned down. One would place a tax of $1,000 on opera and the other a tax of $500. Both of these were offered by members opposed to a tax on opera altogether, in a spirit of compromise, as they declared themselves opposed to the 5 per cent tax in principle and that it would put a tax of about $5,000 on opera, which they declared to be an educational factor in the state. The $1,000 amendment was offered by Senator Wall, and the $500 one by Senator Hutchinson.

The role call on the 5 per cent amusement tax was as follows:

Ayes: Senators Bellah, Bond, Brown, Childs, Cone, Ellis, Foy, Gucke, Haralson, Hollingsworth, Hunt, Jackson, Johns, O. K. Jones, Mills, Nix, Palmour, Pope, Richards, Ridley, Sheffield, Stovall, Tarpley, Taylor, Thomas, Thorpe, Walker, Weaver, Williams and Womble. Total, 38.

Nays: Senators Akin, Collier, David, Denis, Fleming, W. O. Fleming, Hutchins, J. H. Jones, Kim.

Druid Hills Professional Had Won Canadian and Southern Open Championship.

J. Douglas Edgar, golf professional at the Druid Hills Golf club, and one of the best known golfers in the world, was struck by an unidentified automobile at the corner of Fifth and West Peachtree streets late Monday night and died on the way to a hospital, after being picked up by a passing automobile.

L. B. Shivers, a friend of the dead man, stated that he had dropped him off a few minutes before the accident must have occurred, in front of Mr. Edgar's home. When found he was lying in a pool of blood near the curb, one shoe slung to a near-by lawn, and his hat some ten feet away. He was barely alive when picked up, and unconscious. Death occurred while speeding to the hospital.

Mr. Edgar was a native of Scotland, having first come to Atlanta eight years ago from St. Andrews, Scotland. He was about 40 years of age. A pathetic touch is added to the fatal occurrence by the fact that his wife and children are expected to arrive in Atlanta next week from England, a date to which it is said that he had long looked forward.

He was known throughout the country for his golfing abilities, and

EVERY SUM ASKED GRANTED AT HOUSE MEETING MONDAY

Senate Certain to Slice Appropriations, According to Leaders of That Branch of Assembly.

$100,000 YEARLY VOTED TO BUREAU OF MARKETS

Hawkins, of Washington, Leads Fight for Tech When Opposition Is Voiced.

The house ran wild on appropriations Monday, and when the session had ended late in the afternoon the total general appropriations bill had increased to $11,488,979 for 1922. This means the senate will either have to make a reduction of nearly $3,000,000 when it considers the bills, or Governor Thomas W. Hardwick will veto them in line with his stated position of keeping appropriations for next year between $8,500,000 and $9,000,000.

For the next two years, if the same ratio is continued next summer, it is estimated around $24,000,000 will be appropriated. In the face of this action, the house will be the center of a fight Tuesday to table the general tax act, which carries a total revenue of approximately $11,300,000, while the senate will slash the appropriations bill until it comes within $9,500,000, according to President Herbert Clay.

Effect of Taxing Act.

Should the "cloture" while the act be successful, the assembly would revert to the act of 1919. This law brought into the state treasury about $8,477,000. With the decrease in values and estimated revenue from the gasoline tax taken into consideration approximately the same amount would be received in 1922, it was stated.

In the event supporters of the new tax legislation frustrate attempts of its enemies, a fight to make substantial reductions in the increases and additional items of the senate will be started. In addition to these predictions, the mansion sale bill will come up for passage during the day with the Macon capital removal bill, attempting to attach numerous amendments.

After Ennis, of Baldwin, had secured the passage of a measure providing $150,000 to meet deficiencies at the state sanitarium; and after the School for Feeble-minded, at Augusta, had been given $150,000 for the next two years, and a total pension fund of almost three million dollars had been passed during the morning, the fertilizer tax appropriation bill, giving $100,000 to the state bureau of markets, was railroaded through in the early afternoon.

Georgia Tech Wins.

Then the check on appropriations was released, for when an objection was raised to a deficiency fund of $224,479 for the Georgia School of Technology, Hawkins, of Washington, declared: "We have just voted an appropriation of $100,000 to nothing but a political machine, and I will not stand by now and see the educational institutions trampled on the ground."

The appropriation was carried by

For University and Tech Barrow and Matheson Appeal

A vote of 197 to 69. When the result was announced, the speaker had to rap for order several times before he could stop the applause. The house was in disorder, and there was an evident determination of a majority of the members to pass every appropriation bill that was brought before it.

When a measure requiring the governor to return funds collected from the tobacco tax act was introduced, Watkins, of Butts, who fought the passage of the measure, and the key note of the attitude of the legislators and the situation.

"Does the gentleman from Bartow know of any sum of money in the treasury now or any that will be there within the next five years which hasn't already been appropriated by the house this afternoon?" he asked.

His question was greeted with laughter, and the measure was passed by a large vote. A motion was made to adjourn, but several of the representatives objected, and Watkins wanted to know if there were any more appropriation measures which could be passed if the house remained. He requested that they be continued on the calendar for attention when the house convened at 8 in the evening.

At adjournment last night the following deficiency and special appropriation bills had been passed:

Deficiency for state sanitarium at Milledgeville, $150,000.

Maintenance for School for Feeble-Minded, $25,000 for each of the next two years and $5,000 deficiency for 1921.

Pension Deficiency.

Deficiency in pensions for 1921, $852,000.

New pensions for 1922, $1,050,000.

New pensions for 1923, $2,500,000.

State bureau of markets for each of the next two years, $160,000.

Deficiency for Georgia Tech, 1921, $25,419.

Refund of illegal tobacco taxes estimated at $35,000.

Ninth District Agricultural and Mechanical school deficit, $5,000.

Fifth District Agricultural and Mechanical school deficit, $4,000.

State Normal school, at Athens, for deficit, $30,000.

State Normal school, at Valdosta, for deficit, $3,500.

These measures represent a total of $2,462,979 passed during the session.

Added to the general appropriations bill, which carries a total sum of approximately $9,300,000 for each of the next two years, the complete appropriations will amount to approximately $24,000,000.

Ask Deficiency Funds.

During the evening session practically all of the agricultural institutions asked for deficiency or additional maintenance funds, but all were lost with the exception of those located in the fifth and ninth districts.

Coates, of Pulaski, made one of the most brilliant speeches of the session in asking for funds for the twelfth district school, but his amendment was defeated.

Logan, of Banks, spoke in behalf of the fifth district institution.

Following the passage of the funds for the Valdosta school, the house was without a sufficient number of lawmakers to constitute a quorum, and the speaker adjourned the body until 9 o'clock this morning.

Calendar Overthrown.

The morning session witnessed the overthrow of the rules committee's calendar and the passage of appropriations amounting to $2,462,979.

The house refused to recognize the calendar as presented and added bills carrying appropriations for the Valdosta school, the State Normal school, at Athens, and the State Normal school, at Valdosta.

Ennis, of Baldwin, led the attack for the state sanitarium. After securing a place for his two bills on the calendar, he moved to amend the $250,000 deficiency fund to $150,000 and on its passage drew his bill providing $105,000 for completion of a building at the institution.

The appropriation for the Augusta institution was originally $50,000, but this year no provision was made for it.

McDonald, of Richmond, therefore, offered a bill providing for $25,000 each year with a $5,000 deficiency fund for 1921.

Bowden, of Wilkes, took a leading part in supporting the measure, and it was passed easily.

Railway Bill Passed.

A bill introduced in the senate by Wohlwendler allowing street railway companies to consolidate with similar companies of other states in operating interurban lines between cities in different states, was passed.

The measure carried an amendment providing that no existing contract should be affected by it should be construed as making invalid contracts now existing in operating municipalities and corporations.

Columbus and Augusta will be affected by the measure. The amendment was added to safeguard the present one-cent fare between Atlanta and Decatur and College Park, it was stated.

We face a situation such as has never been before in the history of the state, continued President Matheson.

The committee as we have been, with an enrollment of from two to three times as large as any other state institution and carrying 2,700 students, with maintenance of the school on the present basis of operations, is impossible.

The house appropriation bill is $125,000, instead of $225,000. Then it turns around and reduces this amount to $125,000, or 10 per cent of the original estimate.

Miss Julia T. Riordan, Principal Davis Street School, City.

This will acknowledge receipt of yours of the 21st instant, relative to the Brooks' matter.

The committee decided to let you and Professor Dykes settle this matter as best you can. I am sure you will work for the best interest of the school and the child.

Miss Julia T. Riordan, City.

My dear Miss Riordan: Replying to yours of the 21st instant with reference to the Brooks' boy, the committee on education and the board of trustees agreed that the boy was not entitled to promotion and declined to promote him.

The case was referred to the superintendent. He made a statement that he would not overrule you.

We were willing to transfer him to the sixth grade, but the superintendent decided to the seventh, as he had very clearly failed in scholarship.

Miss Julia Riordan, Principal Davis Street School.

Dear Miss Riordan: Yours of 21st. I beg to advise that no discount is meant to you in any manner.

The matter by vote of the committee was in the hands of the superintendent. His decision being final.

In so far as I am concerned, this chapter is closed. Most respectfully,

"On the same day when the above explanation was made to the committee, the principal of another school was called upon to answer a complaint which had been registered against her by a parent. The case against her was no less trivial than against me, but I have not heard that this principal had accused of having been on formal trial before the board, nor has Mr. Sims voted to discharge her because of that complaint. She, however, is not a Catholic.

"I do not believe that the right-thinking people of this city will consider that Mr. Sims was justified in voting to discharge her because of this trivial affair. There are few principals in our schools, if any, who have not been required to make similar explanations. None of them have ever been discharged for such complaints."

David C. Barrow, chancellor of the University of Georgia, and Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Georgia School of Technology, appeared in person before the senate appropriation committee Monday night and protested against the proposed 10 per cent reduction included in the general appropriation bill passed by the house of representatives to affect both Tech and the University of Georgia.

President Matheson issued his appeal on the basis of his previous statement to the effect that unless Tech receives a larger appropriation than $125,000 as provided in the house bill, the operations of the institution will have to be curtailed at least 50 per cent.

"I cannot operate without money," he said. "Last year we had almost a double enrollment and were forced to get through the year on $125,000. We asked for $250,000, as the enrollment was approximately 2,400 students. The house passed the bill, which was promptly reduced by the senate to $125,000.

The committee as we have been, with an enrollment of from two to three times as large as any other state institution and carrying 2,700 students, with maintenance of the school on the present basis of operations, is impossible.

The house appropriation bill is $125,000, instead of $225,000. Then it turns around and reduces this amount to $125,000, or 10 per cent of the original estimate.

We cannot operate at less than our original estimate. Georgia Tech is the only institution in the United States ranking second in wisdom and justice, and consideration of its decision. Yours very truly, Principal Davis Street School, February 20, 1921.

Writes Letters to Members.

"I sent a copy of the above letter to Mr. Sims and to Mr. Terrell, the other members of the committee, I thought the members of the committee should know what the boy had done for himself.

Miss Julia T. Riordan, Principal Davis Street School, City.

This will acknowledge receipt of yours of the 21st instant, relative to the Brooks' matter.

The committee decided to let you and Professor Dykes settle this matter as best you can. I am sure you will work for the best interest of the school and the child.

The decision was announced at the time by Mr. Hutcheson, if you recall.

I am, very truly yours, W. H. TERRELL.

February 24, 1921.

Miss Julia T. Riordan, City.

My dear Miss Riordan: Replying to yours of the 21st instant with reference to the Brooks' boy, the committee on education and the board of trustees agreed that the boy was not entitled to promotion and declined to promote him.

The case was referred to the superintendent. He made a statement that he would not overrule you.

We were willing to transfer him to the sixth grade, but the superintendent decided to the seventh, as he had very clearly failed in scholarship.

W. H. TERRELL.

Atlanta, Ga., February 22, 1921.

Miss Julia Riordan, Principal Davis Street School.

Dear Miss Riordan: Yours of 21st. I beg to advise that no discount is meant to you in any manner.

The matter by vote of the committee was in the hands of the superintendent. His decision being final.

In so far as I am concerned, this chapter is closed. Most respectfully,

CARL J. HUTCHESON.

Assumes Case.

"On the same day when the above explanation was made to the committee, the principal of another school was called upon to answer a complaint which had been registered against her by a parent. The case against her was no less trivial than against me, but I have not heard that this principal had accused of having been on formal trial before the board, nor has Mr. Sims voted to discharge her because of that complaint. She, however, is not a Catholic.

"I do not believe that the right-thinking people of this city will consider that Mr. Sims was justified in voting to discharge her because of this trivial affair. There are few principals in our schools, if any, who have not been required to make similar explanations. None of them have ever been discharged for such complaints."

had competed in several tournaments in other nations. Since coming to the United States he had won the "Canada" open championship, and in 1920 won with comparative ease the southern open championship. He had been in ill health for some time, and only a month ago returned from England, where he spent several months in an effort to recuperate.

The driver of the automobile which struck the dead man has not been found. Persons living in the vicinity where the accident occurred stated that they thought they had heard a dull crash and groans, and one person stated that he had seen a car dash by the scene of the accident. No accurate description of the car could be obtained and the police at once began a search for the death car and its driver.

L. L. Shivers, prominent Atlantian, it seems, was the last of Mr. Edgar's friends to talk with him.

He had played golf with Mr. Edgar during the afternoon, and the two men had come to the dinner, said Mr. Shivers, they played bridge and then went to the 11:30, continued Mr. Shivers. He took Mr. Edgar to the corner of Fifth and Peachtree streets, where Mr. Edgar alighted to go into his home. This was the last Mr. Shivers saw of Mr. Edgar.

It is believed that the death car appeared almost immediately after this.

Motor Patrolmen Kirk and Williams answered the call. The body was carried first to Davis-Patterson sanitarium and from there to the parlors of H. M. Patterson & Sons, whose ambulance answered the call.

Thomas Williams, assistant at Druid Hills, was prostrated with grief over the tragic accident. He and Mr. Edgar had been companions for years.

People from as far as one block away said that they heard a noise of some kind of collision, and ensuing groans.

The freshman green cap, the sophomore-freshman class rush in the fall, and the freshman cap night bonfire in the spring were officially abolished at the University of Wisconsin, recently, by action of the student senate, which has jurisdiction over student conduct. The action is backed by the sentiment of students and of the faculty that the last remnants of hazing, "traditions" of rivalry between the lower classes and other relics of bygone days have been outgrown. The immediate cause of the senate's action was a freshman-sophomore class fight, tending the night before, which severe students were surpassed only in numbers and operating facilities by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"This is our contention. It is proposed that we be cut in our appropriation 10 per cent, but it amounts to really a reduction from $225,000 to $112,500, or a reduction of over 50 per cent. What is the difference—the difference between 10 and 50 per cent. We have today 24 per cent more applications for enrollment next year than we had last year. Industrial development comes through technical training.

Therefore, we ask the gentlemen of the legislature to weigh the potential results certain to follow your action, and see if the results will not be worth the cost. We only ask that we be treated fairly."

Chancellor Barrow's Statement.

Chancellor Barrow warmly defended his institution against the proposed reduction from $225,000 to $125,000.

"This action will cripple us," he stated, "although we are already partly crippled by insufficient appropriations. But we people in Athens are philosophers and we will not be pulled out of more holes than one, and if the general assembly sees fit to take away our appropriation in a reduction to assist in state retrenchment, we will have to struggle through by best we can, as we have done several times in the past."

Thereafter, the committee was called by the chairman Judge Walker of the Eighteenth district for the purpose of devising the house bill, but a large delegation of representatives of various institutions throughout the state will be affected by the appropriation bill took up the entire session in issuing appeals for their respective schools against the proposed cut.

Ex-Governor Nat E. Harris ably seconded Dr. Matheson in his defense of Tech and delivered an address to the committee declaring that the state should not be forced to curtail its operations at least by 50 per cent should the bill pass, said to be no exaggeration but cold facts based on past operations.

Negro Farm Students' Sales.

Juliette, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) Negroes of the county enlisted with the agricultural department of the normal and industrial school at normal and industrial school at Juliette, Ga., for the purpose of raising a total of $4,500 from the sale of two thousand hampers of beans. Other shipments will go forward during the fall and a larger acreage is being planted. Although somewhat of an experiment this season, the bean industry in Monroe was very successful.

acted at the same time Miss Riordan was dropped.

Mr. Jones said that Miss Riordan is a member of the Teachers' association, an organization affiliated with the Federation of Trades, that the case of her dismissal had been duly brought before that body, that merit had been shown in her case, and the committee's object in appearing before the board was to find out the complaints on which it was seen fit to dispense with her services.

"They are a matter of record," stated Mayor Key.

"When with the secretary furnish me a copy of them?" asked Mr. Jones, turning to this officer. No copy was offered by the secretary.

Commissioner W. H. Terrell said he would tell about the circumstances surrounding Miss Riordan's dismissal. He stated that Commissioner Hutcheson did all the talking against her.

"I want to ask that you tote your own skillet and let Hutcheson tote his own," flared up Mr. Hutcheson.

"Mr. Hutcheson, I haven't quoted you at all," replied Mr. Terrell.

Sims Asks Question.

At this point Councilman Sims took a hand. "Didn't Superintendent Dykes say that Miss Riordan gave him more trouble than all the other teachers?" he asked.

"Since this thing's come out, I'm going to make this statement," declared Mr. Hutcheson, jumping to his feet.

"Remember The Constitution," warned Commissioner McCalley, and Mr. Hutcheson subsided into his seat again without making his statement.

Mr. McCalley later smilingly explained that his remark with reference to The Constitution was a joke, adding that Mr. Hutcheson has been "kidded" by members for some time as the result of a recent heat.

ed attack upon the newspaper by Mr. Hutcheson.

During Mr. Jones' talk he referred to an editorial in The Constitution.

Mr. Hutcheson halted him and asserted that The Constitution had "assaulted" him.

"I regret it, Mr. Hutcheson, if they assaulted you, but why jump on me?" replied Mr. Jones.

After these interchanges had ended, Councilman Sims said that probably each man acted for some private reason in voting against Miss Riordan, and stated he was willing to give his individual reason for voting against her.

Give Reasons Privately.

President W. W. Gaines, who had sat silent, arose and told Mr. Jones that he thought the members of the board would be glad to give the reasons for their voting to fire the instructor.

"We don't want your private reasons," answered Mr. Jones. "If you came as a body to us, you'd get an answer. That's what we expect from you."

Commissioner Terrell moved that the delegation's request be granted. His motion got no second. Commissioner Fleming, who had voted with him before, being absent, and the remainder of the board adopted a motion to decline to give any reason for discharging Miss Riordan.

TRIAL OF CONDON
SET FOR TUESDAY

The preliminary hearing of Tom Condon, captured in Cordelle Sunday, and charged with attacking Dr. Pickard, prominent Atlanta dentist, will be held before Judge L. E. Rorer, Jr., in the municipal court Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Requests by Chief Beavers and Lon E. Guilbeaux, attorney for Condon, that the hearing be postponed until more is known about the condition of Dr. Pickard, were not granted.

Dr. Pickard is reported to be much worse at the Wesley Memorial hospital, where he was taken following the difficulty with Condon last Thursday night. He is still unconscious and is believed to be in a dying condition. Condon was lodged in the Fulton county Tower Monday morning, after having been brought back from Cordelle by City Detective O. R. Jones.

Condon confessed to having hit Dr. Pickard, but says that he used only his bare fists and declares that he does not believe such a blow could have endangered the life of Dr. Pickard.

"His skull is fractured it must have been the result of the fall. I couldn't possibly have hit him that hard," said Condon Monday morning. Condon claims that he struck Pickard because the latter used only his bare fists and declares that he does not believe such a blow could have endangered the life of Dr. Pickard.

It was then, says Condon, that he struck Pickard, immediately afterward a friend of the physician, he claims, is said to have reached toward his hip and thinking he was about to draw a gun, Condon fled. He went to the Martinique hotel and registered under the name of A. N. McMillan. I used an assumed name because I was afraid the police would be after me, and we would all be arrested for getting into a fight, he said. "I didn't want to be arrested."

"The next day when I was tipped off that Dr. Pickard was badly hurt and that the police wanted me, I lost my head. I decided to go down to Macon and get my brother's advice. I did. He told me to go home to my mother in Cordelle and wait until I could get my head together. I went to my mother in Cordelle and waited for several days. I was afraid to go back to Atlanta because I was afraid the police would be after me. I was afraid to go back to Atlanta because I was afraid the police would be after me."

At the time Condon came up a few words passed between the two men, say the women. The car started right after the attack, and Condon and the women drove hurriedly off, not wishing to be mixed up in a street brawl.

Condon was captured at the home of his mother on information given by the Cordelle police by Chief of Detectives Leman Poole. The chief and four of his men had traced Condon to Macon and from there to Cordelle.

Chief Poole declared Monday that every effort had been made from the first to arrest Condon. As he went to work on the case at once and he. At the time our critics were talking loudest, we could have alluded them by telling what we were doing, but that would have jeopardized our chances to catch Condon. So we endured it. You can't render hourly reports on police work. If you do you won't get very far in capturing the men you are after."

Promised Visit To Farrar Home
By Tellegen Off

Geraldine Sends Former Friend Husband's Personal Things to Storage.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, August 8.—It will not be necessary for Lou Tellegen to return to the home of Geraldine Farrar, his wife, to collect his sticks and pipes and fancy vests, left behind when he and love walked out of the iron grille doors more than a week ago to go fishing. Miss Farrar has been tidying up the humble cottage off Central Park west, where the carpets feel like snowdrifts underfoot, and has sent all of Lou Tellegen's things to storage where he may obtain them after enacting slight formalities with the cashier.

Tuesday an agent of Lou Tellegen's will visit the warehouse with pad and pencil and inventory list and begin checking off such things as: shirts, silk, striped, one; hats, fedoras, green, one; suits, morning, one; suits, evening, one; walking sticks, three-to-five-thirty p. m. Henceforth, it is expected, fewer mementos of her one romance, that Miss Farrar encounters around the loveless home of the better Mrs. Farrar will like it. As between her and Lou Tellegen all is over and the testimony and possibly certain questions of property rights, according to the lawyers.

Miss Farrar still recalls from publicly but there was something in the manner of her attorneys Monday which indicated that possibly, if she decided to tell her story it will be a story to read in the papers. "Wait a few days," one of the attorneys said. "Mr. Tellegen really would prefer privacy in the settlement of her domestic affairs. It is understood, if only because of the Metropolitans position. The Metropolitan house of court, contrary to the custom of musical firms, does not refuse to accept of propaganda, though it makes a ballet girl famous overnight. That is why the Metropolitans of the Metropolitan is said to be more busily engaged in suppressing little private scandals than in promoting Metropolitan performers. In season and out, than in prying in press notices next to live reading matter. Lou Tellegen had finished "resting" Monday evening and was observed visiting his wife's apartment where the husband's side of the late romance is being typed for presentation to the court. Tellegen had not been about his usual haunts since that afternoon when his own butler refused to extend him the courtesies of the house, and the crimp-cut sun-curved yellow silk curtains, peering out at the master who had come to find out how things were and arrange for my bond if I were arrested."

Mrs. Boatfield and Mrs. Stephens, when interviewed Monday corroborated the principal points of Condon's story. They say that Pickard, whom they didn't know at the time, accosted them when their car was stalled and asked, "Need any help, kid?"

They say they told him that they did not know him and asked him to go away. Friends of Dr. Pickard claim that the doctor and the women it was merely to offer his aid. Women Leave Scene.

Y. RESERVE HEAD SEES BETTERMENT

Governor Strong Tells Committee Business Is Well Embarked On "Cycle of Recovery."

Washington, August 8.—An explanation of banking and monetary principles which, he said, have controlled the federal reserve system since its inception, was given today before a congressional commission by Governor Strong, of the New York reserve bank, in defense of charges that in its operations it has discriminated against agricultural credit needs. Deliberate inflation of credit by lowered interest rates, with consequent increased prices, was resorted to during the war as a military necessity, he said, but deflation and price drops in recent months, he declared, were not forced by the board, but were inevitable and world wide. Higher interest rates by the reserve system, he described as more or less incidental.

New York, far from being favored, Mr. Strong asserted, had been subjected "to pressure by interest rates to liquidate greater than in any other part of the country." Although describing collapse of prices which indicated that the economy was in a cycle of recovery, and cited industrial resumption, advancing prices of high-grade securities, and lower interest rates as symptoms, Governor Strong said, "but the banking machinery was not operated with eyes on a chart of prices, to move them up and down. The reserve bank rates," he added, "are a reflection of conditions, rather than an endeavor to influence conditions, and they are an efficient means of adjusting credit."

Discussing charges that high call money rates in New York drew money away from the interior, Governor Strong said they were rather an evidence that money had first been withdrawn from New York for use in the interior. In spite of 30 per cent interest there, he said, the "New York banks had to be kept at the limit of their call loans. In 1917, he added, a money committee had been set up through the reserve bank to supply stock exchange funds and to prevent a run away money market. From his statements it was evident that Governor Strong believed the funds for stock exchange purposes were being drawn from the interior. He will continue his discussion tomorrow.

AMOROUS CALLED

BY CLARK HOWELL, JR.
Constitution Bureau.
Haleigh Hotel.
Washington, August 8.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—Martin Amoroso, of Atlanta, has been summoned to appear before the joint agricultural committee of the house and senate Friday morning by Chairman Anderson, of the committee, according to C. S. Barrett, president of the Farmers' Union.

Mr. Amoroso, it is understood, will be called upon to explain what, in his opinion, caused the sudden collapse of agricultural interests throughout the country, telling what he believed was the cause of the house and senate Friday morning by Chairman Anderson, of the committee, according to C. S. Barrett, president of the Farmers' Union.

IMMIGRANTS WILL BE ADMITTED UNDER BOND

Washington, August 8.—Immigrants in excess of July and August quotas now held at various ports, will be admitted under personal bonds charged to the year's totals. Commissioner General Hulse, of the immigration bureau, announced after a conference with ship line representatives.

The state department, probably will be asked to make formal request of the Greek government to release the percentage immigration law, it was stated today, while the shipping board would be requested to deal with an American company operating shipping board ships. The order would be issued to admit about 1,000 immigrants. Commissioner Hulse said the companies represented at the conference had agreed to avoid exceeding quotas in the future.

The law provides no fine or punishment for a line which disregards it, only penalty possible being to turn vessels back. As the immigrants have a right to appeal to Washington before sent home, however, it was said the bureau would have been swamped had that course been taken.

MONEY AVAILABLE FOR FARM LOANS

Farmers Will Be Able to Borrow More Easily Within Next Six Months, Says Senator Harris.

Within the next six months farmers of Georgia and of the country will be able to borrow money more easily for their crop operations next year as a result of the passage of the Norris bill by congress, it was announced Monday by United States Senator William J. Harris, who is in Atlanta. By January 1, 1935, about $250,000,000 will be available for farm loans through the War Finance corporation, according to Senator Harris.

The most important feature of the new law will be that it will permit banks in all parts of the country to discount their agricultural paper and to carry away many obstacles which have stood in their way toward financing the farmers heretofore. "This bill means that the banks can go ahead and finance the farmers with practically a clean slate and without fear of the future," Senator Harris declared. "It will eliminate the frozen loans they have been forced to carry and will enable them to function as far as the farmer is concerned practically on a normal basis. The banks are not to be blamed for the situation that has existed. They have done their share and much more and the provisions of the Norris bill will bring them relief as much as relief will be given the farmer."

Passage a Surprise.
Enactment of this bill came as a surprise to republican administration leaders and its passage was possible as a result of the senate "block" composed of senators representing southern and western states. "Senators from the southern and western states stood together on this legislation, and on other agricultural legislation, regardless of party lines. Through the formation of this group of senators rapid strides have been taken in passing legislation needed by the farmers. Thirty days ago Senator Lodge made a motion that the senate adjourn and we opposed it. Within that period the legislation was passed which will be of vast benefit to every farmer and every bank carrying agricultural business," he said.

Senator Harris said there is nothing new in the Camp Gordon situation. He declared the government is looking over the matter with a view toward utilizing the camp if possible and if it is found that it cannot be used it will be dismantled.

"Under the army reorganization plans, however, Georgia becomes an important state in the government system. There will be no military training school in Georgia and with a smaller army that post will become more important than ever. The government operates the headquarters of the southeastern department in Atlanta. The United States public health service for the southeast is located in Atlanta. The quartermaster department at Candler warehouse for the southeast is in Atlanta. A great new government hospital is to be built in Augusta. At Columbus is Camp Benning which is the largest military training school in the world. These activities put Georgia out in front of all southern states as far as government activities are concerned," the senator asserted.

Hospital in Augusta.
The new hospital at Augusta would have been located in some state along the Atlantic seaboard north of Georgia or in one of the central southern states under the original bill but when it came to the senate a fight on it was organized by Senator Harris and he succeeded in changing the measure so that the secretary of the treasury would name the place for the location of the five hospitals. Augusta was selected and a million dollars will be spent there on the hospital according to the senator.

Although the republicans have made several starts toward changing the policies of the Wilson administration, Senator Harris declared. "The republicans floundered around and attempt to do some of the things they said they would do but thus far they have got exactly nowhere," the senator declared.

Looks for Relief.
Discussing the tariff on potatoes, Senator Harris said the republicans had succeeded in putting this in such shape that the farmers of the south will have to pay for it but expressed the opinion that the senate will have to be able to do something to relieve the situation. "The combination of southern and western senators is stronger than the administration and already more has been accomplished in the way of progressive farm legislation than some of the administration leaders ever believed would be possible," he declared.

Senator Harris will remain in Georgia until the latter part of the week. He has record of being in his seat in the senate more regularly than any member of the senate with the exception of Senator Sheppard, of Texas. Unless the senate declares a recess he will return to Washington Friday or Saturday.

PAYNE WILL ASK FOR NEW TRIAL

H. A. Allen, attorney for W. L. Payne, city detective convicted of receiving bribes for the protection of Nat McWhorter, notorious negro bootlegger, announced yesterday that he would immediately file a motion for a new trial for his client and was prepared to carry the case, if need be, to the supreme court. He did not announce on what grounds he would base his motion.

In the meantime, Judge J. H. Humphries, presiding over superior court, has fixed Wednesday as the date for sentencing Payne. The crime of which he has been convicted is a misdemeanor and the maximum penalty is $1,000 fine, 12 months on the chain-gang, and six months imprisonment.

Chief of Police Beavers Monday declared that at the next meeting of the board of police commissioners he would formally advise the board of the verdict in the Payne case.

RACE RIOT STAGED IN NEW YORK PRISON

Syracuse, N. Y., August 8.—Six inmates of the state prison at Auburn are in a hospital and thirty others in isolation cells as a result of a battle between negroes and whites in the exercise yard yesterday. Ill-feeling over a ball game Saturday culminated in an attack on the negroes.

There were one thousand prisoners in the exercise yard when the trouble started. Members of the mutual welfare league ball team and a number of sympathizers picked up ball bats and sticks and started at a group of negroes standing at one side. The negroes on Saturday rooted against the mutual welfare team playing an outside aggregation. It was said.

The negroes backed to one side of the yard and tried to repel the attack with bricks, heaped there on account of some construction work. Prison guards finally were able to separate the combatants by the use of heavy clubs and the display of revolvers.

To All Lovers of Law and Order, Peace and Justice, and to All the People of the United States:

Whereas, an apparent nationwide attempt through public statements in the press and conduct of lawless citizens and traitors within our ranks there appears to be a concerted effort to discredit the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in the eyes of the public.

Whereas, the Supreme Committee of the organization, composed of citizens of unquestioned character from the states of New York, Illinois, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and elsewhere, is now in session in its sixth annual meeting.

Whereas, in the face of the above conditions, after full and careful deliberation, it has been decided that the Imperial Wizard of this organization should once again call the attention of the public to the real purposes and work of this organization, in order that the truth may be known to all men.

Therefore, I, the Imperial Wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, do hereby officially proclaim and declare under solemn oath as follows:

1st. THE KNIGHTS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN DOES NOT ENCOURAGE OR FOSTER LAWLESSNESS, RACIAL PREJUDICE OR RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE, and is not designed to act in the capacity of a law enforcement or moral correction agency, except in so far as the members of the organization as citizens may be able to assist the regular officers of the law in the apprehending of criminals and the upholding and sustaining of the majesty of the law and the honor and integrity of the Stars and Stripes and the Constitution of America. To the above every member entering the portals of this organization has been sworn under the most binding and solemn oath, and any act or word contrary to the above statement by any Klansman is a violation of his oath, and puts him beyond the pale of fellowship in the organization and makes him an outlaw not only in the eyes of the law of the land, but in the eyes of his former fellow Klansmen, as a violation of oath of any Klansman automatically banishes him from his organization.

2d. In order that there may be absolutely no doubt in the public mind as to the real purposes and object and work of this organization, I quote herewith Section 3, of Article 2, of the Constitution and laws of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan: "This Order is an institution of Chivalry, Humanity, Justice and Patriotism, embodying in its genius and principles all that is chivalric in conduct, noble in sentiment, generous in manhood, and patriotic in purpose; its peculiar objects being, first, to protect the weak, the innocent and the defenseless, from the indignities, wrongs and outrages of the lawless, the violent and the brutal; to relieve the injured and the oppressed; to succor the suffering and the unfortunate, especially worthy widows and orphans; second, to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States of America, and all laws passed in conformity thereto, and to protect the states and the people thereof from all invasion of their rights thereunder from any source whatsoever; third, to aid and assist in the execution of all constitutional laws, and to preserve the honor and dignity of the states by opposing tyranny, in any and every form or degree attempted, from any other source whatsoever, by a fearless and faithful administration of justice; and to promptly and properly meet every behest of duty without fear and without reproach." If necessary the organization is prepared to submit the entire Constitution of the order, as there is nothing in it that any honorable, law-abiding, conscientious, clean-hearted and pure-spirited, hundred per cent American could not subscribe to and swear to uphold.

3rd. I hereby declare and pronounce the present attempt to fasten upon this organization acts of lawlessness TO BE THE ATTEMPT OF OUR ENEMIES TO DISCREDIT THE ORGANIZATION, and the further our investigation goes into every particular incident of lawlessness which has been charged against us the more convinced I am that the present wave of criticism passing through the press IS A CONCERTED MOVE ON THE PART OF OUR ENEMIES IN AN ATTEMPT TO PREJUDICE THE PUBLIC IN REGARD TO OUR WORK. In one instance we already have the statement of a supposed victim in Texas of lawless conduct on the part of the Ku Klux Klan, that the incident itself was conceived in his own mind, and that he tied the bandages around his hands and over his eyes and mouth himself, but he declined to state why he attempted to make it appear that the Ku Klux had robbed him. WE KNOW THE REASON WHY, and it is easy for the public to comprehend the reason and why he does not wish to disclose same.

His statement or admission came before our investigators reached the spot.

4th. The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and any members of the organization cannot commit acts of lawlessness and remain in the fellowship of the organization. We do not claim to have a perfect machine, because no human machine is perfect, and it is possible that words or deeds in violation of the rules and regulations of this organization by its members may occur. It is also true that legislators, officers of the law and citizens, members of all of our leading fraternal organizations, are from time to time making mistakes and committing crimes in violation of the law, yet no one is justified in saying that because of this fact legislative bodies should be abolished, all machinery of the law disbanded.

In conclusion, the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is a law-abiding, legally chartered, standard fraternal order, designed to teach and inculcate the purest ideals of American citizenship with malice towards none and justice to every citizen regardless of race, color or creed. It is attempting to bring about in America re-dedication of its membership in loyalty and devotion to the Stars and Stripes and the Constitution of the United States of America and to build up and foster the spirit of real fraternity and fellowship amongst men. In the face of these facts the organization calmly awaits the final judgment of the people of America. If we are all that our enemies charge, or even one-fourth as wicked as claimed, America has nothing to fear from this organization, for it will perish. On the other hand, if we are being lied about by those who are unworthy and who are not pure Americans at heart, or who would sacrifice their country for selfish interests, the time will come when all their falsehoods and serious statements will react on them and the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan will come into its own and take its place in the hearts of real Americans, where its founders intended it should as the one greatest force in America to guarantee to all men that this country shall forever be what its founders intended, THE LAND OF THE FREE AND THE HOME OF THE BRAVE, wherein all men, regardless of race, color or creed, can live in peace and happiness, enjoying the greatest amount of liberty and justice in any country in the world.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 8th day of August, 1921.

SIX AMERICANS FREED IN RUSSIA

Bolshevik Legation at Reval Informs American Consul Former Prisoners Will Be in Estonia.

Reval, Estonia, August 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Bolshevik legation here today informed the American consul that the following Americans who have been imprisoned in Russia have been released and would arrive at Cambur, near Narva, Estonia, tomorrow.

Captain Emmett Kilpatrick, of Uniontown, Ala.; Dr. Weston B. Estes, of Brooklyn; William Plick, of Brooklyn; Corporal Thomas Haslewood, of San Francisco; C. B. Kalamitiano, of Racine, Wis., and Henry J. Lamar, of New York.

TEN MILLION WITHOUT FOOD.

Washington, August 8.—Within two weeks, 10,000,000 Russians will be without food, according to estimates cable to the department of state.

The hunger-stricken area is spreading rapidly, millions of Russians are migrating to Siberia, little or no grain will be available for September planting and fear is held here that the Russian nation is on the verge of collapse.

Lenine issues appeal. For that reason, cable appeals for help to the "proletariat" of the world around Moscow, among Washington officials in touch with the situation. It is regarded here as an effort to convince the Russian people, when help comes, that the soviets, through their influence on workers abroad, were responsible for saving the nation.

There is no doubt that many officials here see a chance of the downfall of Lenine and Trotsky in Russia's present plight.

"From Saratov to Yuzka," the middle Volga district, said telegraphic information to the state department from its representatives abroad, "the famine situation is especially serious. The situation is developing to an acute degree in the eastern Ukraine, the north Caucasus and south Ural districts. Not less than 60,000,000 pounds of grain will be required for food in the Volga district. For the purpose of sowing a new crop, 7,000,000 pounds will be required before September 1."

Boat Confesses Killing Mother, Says Coroner

Navigation Experts Want To Know Whether or Not Boiler Explosion Wrecked the Alaska.

Evansville, Ind., August 8.—Willie Deffendoll, 17, held with his brother, Dolly, 22, for the murder of their 70-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha Deffendoll, confessed at noon today to officials at Boonville that he shot and killed her. It was announced by Coroner Verner Kriehaus.

According to the story which Willie told Coroner Kriehaus, he and his mother were walking through woods in search of some squirrels when the hammer of his gun struck against a tree and discharged a shot through his mother's back.

Mrs. Deffendoll, wounded, fell down on her side. Then she turned over on her face, according to the story drawn from Willie.

"I didn't want to kill her, so I shot her again in the neck," Willie hurried to his home and took refuge in Boonville. He set the date of the shooting as Friday, July 22, and said it occurred at 8 o'clock in the morning.

According to Willie's confession he had had an argument with his mother on the day before the shooting because he had returned from Boonville without a job.

"She fussed at me," he said, simply.

Willie's confession clears up the mystery as to who shot Mrs. Deffendoll, but his accidental version of the shooting was not given much credence by officials at Boonville.

The body of Mrs. Deffendoll, with the head severed, was found in the woods near her farm home 15 miles from Boonville last week.

FOREST FIRES BURN 60 FAMILIES' HOMES IN NEWFOUNDLAND

St. Johns, N. B., August 8.—Forest fires which destroyed 60 families' homes and much live stock and caused loss estimated at $100,000, broke out in the St. John river, were under control early Monday night after a heavy rain had fallen in the afternoon.

Men fought the flames until their hats and boots were burned off and tonight many of them were being given first aid treatment at hospitals here.

The area swept by the fire comprises several summer colonies along the river and the surrounding timberland. The sixty dwellings reported destroyed were mostly summer residences.

Small Reiterates His Determination To Resist Arrest

Navigation Experts Want To Know Whether or Not Boiler Explosion Wrecked the Alaska.

Springfield, Ill., August 8.—Sheriff Meester and District Attorney Mortimer late today decided that no attempt would be made tonight to arrest the man known as Small, who is a conference between the sheriff and the state executive at the latter's offices. The sheriff did not take to the governor's office the three warrants charging the governor with embezzlement of state funds while he was state treasurer.

Determination to resist arrest was reiterated to the sheriff, who said his visit was made to obtain a statement from the governor as to his position. The sheriff said that if Small had threatened to take action against him and his bondsmen if attempts were made to arrest him, he would not have to arrange his bonds that I would have to bring him in.

But this fact did not lighten the load of the relatives and friends of 28 missing passengers and crew members who are hoping against hope that some miracle will restore the lives believed lost, nor will it prevent the fearful and dramatic scenes in the morgue, where 11 bodies now lie.

Forty-five lives are believed lost, according to the revised lists of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship company.

The investigation is headed by Captain J. L. Bulger, supervising inspector for the district. Captain Bulger said that all charges by passengers of incompetence on the part of officers and crew will be thoroughly probed.

THE PAYNE VERDICT.

The verdict in the Payne case affords gratifying evidence that at last public sentiment in behalf of good government and clean administration of the police department is awakening to action.

The reports of three consecutive grand juries and a special investigating committee of council have been not only ignored, but flouted by those who have determined that the city is not entitled to anything better than it got during the days when the bunco operators opened their way.

In this verdict public conscience has, for the first time, asserted itself.

The verdict is a victory for law and order and public decency in Atlanta.

It is a tribute to the courage and integrity of Solicitor-General Boykin, and it is a gratifying vindication of his attitude in fighting for clean government in this city.

It is to be assumed, of course, that the trial judge will prove to be as fearless as the jury when it comes to completing the record in the Payne case.

FARM ORGANIZATION.

The movement to bring the cotton growers together in a co-operative organization for their mutual benefit is making progress—and justly so.

Application of the principle of organization on a co-operative basis to the business of agriculture has passed the stage of expediency; it has become an absolute necessity, if farming is to maintain a position on a par with other lines of industry.

The grower of cotton cannot utilize any portion of his raw product, as in the case of food or textile crops, but he depends entirely upon the market for his returns.

Every transaction the cotton-grower makes brings him directly in contact with organization.

Everything that he buys—his fertilizers, his implements, all of his home supplies that he does not himself produce—he must obtain from sources that are organized for their mutual protection and advantage.

In disposing of every pound of cotton that he sells he deals with interests that are organized.

The cotton brokers, the jobbers, the spinners—all interests that have anything to do with cotton from the time it leaves the field until it reaches the "ultimate consumer"—all organized.

The producers, constituting the very backbone of the cotton industry, are the only ones having anything whatsoever to do, directly or indirectly, with the staple, who are not banded together for their mutual welfare and protection.

From the very nature of things, and because of their sequestration from the commercial centers and the seats of barter and trade, it is most necessary that the farmers, of all factors in the cotton industry, should be organized and in position to meet organization with organization!

Any cotton grower who falls or refuses to cooperate with his fellow-growers, but insists upon going it alone on an independent,
"every-man-for-himself" plan, is not only standing in the way of his own welfare, but he is to that extent holding back the development and prosperity of his state.

Mr. Edison has handed the college "grads" another and more terrifying questionnaire, and they can't see, for the life of 'em, why the old wizard doesn't get to work at something worth while!

A RIGHTEOUS PROTEST.

In a communication to Congressman Brand, published today, Benjamin W. Hunt, a prominent citizen and banker of Eatonton, Ga., voices vigorous protest against the attitude of the government toward the traffic in federal Liberty bonds on a discount basis.

He is right in the position he takes—that the patriotic citizens who came to the rescue of their country in time of need, and advanced it money with thousands of instances the purchasers of these government war securities being men and women to whom such purchases meant actual privation and real sacrifice—are entitled to protection against loss when circumstances force them to dispose of their bonds in advance of maturity.

The bonds were sold upon the assurance that they would bear a certain rate of interest, payable at stated intervals, and that upon maturity they would be redeemed by the government at their face value.

The government, of course, will make good that guarantee.

But when the government by deflating the currency creates a condition that forces the sale of government securities at a loss it works a hardship on innocent investors.

As Mr. Hunt asserts in his letter to Congressman Brand, the masses bought bonds, "not for selfish investment, but that each woman and man unable to serve in the army might contribute toward the winning of the war," and he says that "when deflation was carried to its extreme about 95 to 98 per cent of the bonds held by my clients had to be sold regardless of price to pay the debts that cotton could not liquidate."

That the attitude of the government in forcing hasty inflation was very largely responsible for the withering slump in products, no unbiased observer will deny;
and the same thing is true of price conditions generally.

That being the case, the least that the government could do, in justice and equity, would be to throw every possible safeguard round the patriotic, unselfish, self-sacrificing holders of those of its securities that were bought through love of country and in absolute good faith.

RUNNING THE GAMUT.

The senate has passed the 5 per cent amusement tax on all forms of amusement in Georgia—from the lowest to the highest.

The farmer who runs into a nearby town to enjoy a moving picture show must pay for the privilege, as must every attendant upon a concert, a chautauque, the theater, or the opera.

This is only an evidence of the desperate condition in which the state finds itself as the result of its botch-work financial system.

Not another state in the union
ovies such a tax.

And there is not another state in the union of approximately the same population of Georgia that, comparing assets with liabilities,
is in as good a condition as Georgia.

And yet we have run the gamut from the pawn broker to a tax on amusements to make ends meet.

The proposed amusement tax is utterly unjustified, and it will work a hardship that is entirely unnecessary.

Perhaps the house will yet correct the senate's error in this respect.

At least let us hope so.

"You may talk about the supremacy of sea power or land power," says Editor George Bailey, "but the supremacy that makes a nation strong is the power of elbow grease in action."

The statement that the yearly allowance of the Queen of England is "only $350,000," has caused a feminine chorus of "No wonder she has to make her old clothes over!"

Prospective "personal" in home-papers: "After a pleasant vacation in Atlanta our representative in the legislature has returned home to work."

The Indianapolis News speaks of "The wise men of congress."
And now the whole bunch will think that the world turns to look at them.

"More men are wearing wigs," says a fashion paper. And yet we haven't missed the old bald-headed front row at the ballet.

The Illinois governor says that's what he gets for serving the people. It seems, however, that he served himself first.

—Georgia.

O. H. McLendon, of Moultrie, sends us this prose-poem, entitled "Georgia."

GEORGIA, my native state, my long loved state, to this ode is given. My heart inclines toward southern plains, where fragrant perfume's driven. Fresh from the meadow and the lea, where songbirds sing their sweetest lay, and members of the long past day awaken dreams of heaven. Here sunlight plains their anthems sing, and children's memories round me cling in paths of forty years ago, where boyhood's memories backward flow.

"Tis as some sweet orchestra strain that binds me in love's arms again, while in the quiet shades I rest, among my people, rich beneath the wood, idly grazing on the lea,
where, there, the placid stream,
flowing gently—like a dream, kissed
by leaping crystal rills, shining from the shaded hills, where the sweet magnolia peep, from the flowering banks so steep, where, like birds, they sing their anthems sing, and I used to go, 'midst the dark green branches high, 'neath a clear, blue southern sky. Where the pony and the lamb, from the hills of Habersham, joyous in their idle
wood, idly grazing on the lea,
where, there, the placid stream,
flowing gently—like a dream, kissed
by leaping crystal rills, shining

In the second session Gans began to show his class. Tiger landed three lefts and thus encouraged the other boys to follow suit. The right crashed through and to all intents and purposes the fight then was over. Tiger was so sure of the round, Gans had repeated two dozen times and the Tiger was both satisfied and worried as he went to his corner.

In the third session Gans continued the same work. His left, when the boys were tired, was the most sure. Flowers back on his haunches. Stuns, Flowers rallied and the Tiger was back on his feet.

The fourth round saw Tiger's nose bleeding freely and an eye puffed

More Pores Opened. In the fifth round, Flowers was bleeding from every pore and added a few more to his list of injuries as he progressed. He was down momentarily when he was hit by a gust of foul weather through by keeping constantly under cover.

This cover had Gans worried. It was like punch-bags, a thing he isn't given to doing and in the next round he was squatted in the floor in front of the men in his right uppers in order to straighten out his legs and get back on his square, and so did Tiger, the latter landing on his head before he was able to get back on his feet, though. The evening boxing was colorful, particularly the bouts between Billy Hooper and Batting Mims and between Billy Hooper and Billy Moon. Hooper and Mims fought a close, hard-fought battle and had the crowd thrilled but that wasn't any excuse for Hooper to lose. He was out of his mind and had done all the leading and had his opponent in a mighty bad mood.

Billy Hooper and Batting Moon fought with a fine tusseling match. Hooper was the best tussler. He

Beautiful Girl Held as Witness In Murder Case

Young Divorcee of Evanston, Ill., and Her Friend Jailed at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., August 8.—"It was Madalynne Obenchain," this statement, attributed to Arthur Courney Burch, held in connection with the murder of John B. Kennedy, by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Nolan, is believed to be the solution of the "girl-cousin" mystery, which has baffled the police in attempted solution of the unusual drama.
Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, beautiful young divorcee, is held as a material witness in the murder of Kennedy, who was her sweetheart. She was the "girl-cousin" at Northwestern University, when she was a student. Burch, also held in this unusual case, was a schoolmate of Mrs. Obenchain when both lived as Evanston, Ill.
Burch is said to have been visited in his rooms at a hotel directly across from the offices of young Kennedy by a young woman he called his "cousin." The police have believed that if this young woman could be found a motive for the murder of Kennedy might be found. Burch has no cousin in Los Angeles, according to his family.

MASS MEETING HELD FOR HORACE RUSSELL

At a well-attended mass meeting held at the Highland Avenue school house last night, Horace Russell, candidate for council from the ninth ward to succeed Robert Jones, who will not stand for reelection, told his hearers that he stood for clean city government and for a clean-up in the police department of the city.

He was preceded by Councilman Walter A. Sims, who also spoke of the necessity of clean government, and made an appeal for the passage of the tax increase at the election to be held on August 31.

After the speeches were made a number of friends of the candidate discussed plans for the campaign. The meeting was equally attended by men and women.

PROGRAM OF GROWTH FOR MACON CHAMBER

Macon, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) A program including the first meeting in scope of all its departments has been announced by the Macon Chamber of Commerce. The first step will be to increase the membership to 1,200 active members. The board of commissioners will then be increased in number from seven to eighteen, and the executive staff will be increased to care for the affairs of the different departments. The woman's auxiliary will be given more power in participating in the efforts of the organization, and a junior chamber of commerce will be formed. E. W. Burke will continue as president of the chamber of commerce throughout the fiscal year.

To Select Crew For Dirigible Flight to U. S.

Washington, August 8.—Every member of the American naval crew assigned to bring the dirigible ZR-2 to the United States will be specially selected and specially trained as a result of the program laid down for the flight by the navy department more than a year ago. Most of the crew participated in the construction of the airship while at the same time taking intensive courses in technical subjects bearing upon her operation. Between times, they took part in track and field events, and in other physical exercises designed to keep them in shape for the 3,100 mile trip.

Table d'hôte meals will be served en route to the crew of the ZR-2. Sample menus issued by the navy department show that hot food will be prepared on special cookers attached to the engines. Breakfast will include cereal, fruit, bacon and eggs and coffee, while the lunch card shows soup, roast beef, sliced tomatoes, green onions, cheese, cakes and even candy. For dinner a regular two-dollar spread is scheduled, including clam chowder, roast beef, saute potatoes, spaghetti, pickles and canned peaches.

The Building Lot Situation

During the six years of war and subsequent period of inflation, no building lots were created. All public work stopped; no additions of streets paved.

Even now public work is limited, and costs about three times the former rate. Building lots in the popular subdivisions are consequently going very fast, and those sold in the early spring are now bringing a premium.

In one of our subdivisions we sold forty lots to one builder. We frequently sell lots in batches of five and six to people who expect to resell at a profit.

The individual home builder is not taking advantage of the opportunities presented, and is daily losing good chances to buy building lots. There is no use in waiting longer.

ONE COMMODITY WHICH CAN SAFELY BE COUNTED ON TO ADVANCE IN VALUE IS AN IMPROVED BUILDING LOT.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

WHAT ARE KRYPTOK BIFOCALS?
They are a combination of glass, allowing you to see both near and far with one solid glass. No removing your reading glass to see distant objects; no seams, lines or blisters to worry you or attract attention of others to your age. Absolutely invisible while on the face, they have proven a revelation to thousands who have come to us for them. Why are we successful with Kryptoks? Because we are extremely careful in the examination of your eyes, the correct grinding of the glass, and perfect adjustment of frames to each individual face, all of which is absolutely necessary to insure comfort and appearance. If you have Kryptoks bought elsewhere and cannot use them, bring them to us and we will find the trouble. Ask the better oculists or any of our patients what the Ballard service is to the public.
